The nature of the work of professionals is skilled and specialised. When something goes wrong, it can be difficult for a client to assess whether or not the professional is to blame.

We specialise in advising on claims against solicitors, accountants, surveyors, architects, financial advisors and computer consultants. If we are unable to resolve any disputed claim by negotiation or through alternative dispute resolution, we will pursue your claim through the Courts.

We also undertake professional negligence cases in relation to failed personal injury and clinical negligence cases.

If you feel let down by a professional in whom you have placed your trust, we can advise you about:

- Whether or not you have a claim against the professional
- The cost of suing the professional
- The likelihood of the professional being insured so that your chances of successfully enforcing any judgement are enhanced
- The complaints procedures offered by the professional's governing body

We aim to resolve any dispute to your advantage both economically and as quickly as possible, providing that speed is to your advantage.

We recognise that funding legal proceedings can be a major hurdle to getting results. We aim to work in a way which matches your abilities to pay our fees.
